

Bradford has a fair face brushed with freckles, accompanied by his bright blue eyes and light brown hair. He is 5'10" with an athletic and lean build. His favorite sport is surfing, and he loves rock climbing. His hobbies vary from sports to taking things apart so he can put them back together which really ties into his mechanical inclinations. When he is not outdoors, Bradford is likely working diligently towards his degree in civil engineering. He plans to graduate soon and have a career in which he assists in developing civil systems that reduce environmental impacts.

Along with his hard work in academics, Bradford is also a proud United State Marine Corps veteran. Though he may seem like a completely structured individual due to his lifestyle both as a student and being in the military, Bradford is a great mix of both structured and adventurous. He has an incredibly calm and laid back persona and likes to take things one day at a time. Bradford is the complete package and we are lucky to have him in the program.
