

Staff Impression: Wallace

Wallace is an All-American boy standing at six feet tall with a slender build that he maintains with regular cardio exercise including skateboarding everywhere he goes. He embodies his Norwegian heritage with fair skin and striking blue eyes. He has a thick, straight blonde hair that he keeps styled. He goes in between having short hair and letting it grow out to about shoulder length. Wallace has full pink lips and straight white teeth. He is quite a cute young man.

Wallace is currently a student pursuing his degree in Engineering with a focus on Human Systems Engineering. He hopes to one day work in the automotive industry, specifically designing the interface between driver and car. Wallace is driven in his studies but also finds time to maintain his hobbies and interests such as fishing, hiking and skiing. He enjoys being able to spend time outdoors. Wallace is laid back and soft spoken. It takes a little while to break through his shy exterior but once you do he is easy to talk to and is almost always in a happy, positive mood.
